In Thick Grown Scrub The spot where the body was found is thick grown scrub. The brush now is heavy-leaved, infilled with a heavy grass. The dead leaves of a happier autumn form a patch carpet over the ground. Shortly after 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon a truck hauling timbers to be used in a moving job stopped beside the road. Allen left the truck and went into the brush. Horrified at what he saw Allen ran back to the road and called Orville Wilson. When Wilson viewed the body he said: "What are you going to do?" Allen said: "I am going to notify the state police." The police found the shallow grave on a slight slope. The body had been concealed with leaves and brush. The child's form lay face down, and the depression in which it rested was so slight as to indicate that efforts to conceal it had been very hurried. "Struck Fearful Blow" County physician Charles Mitchell examined the body. "The baby was struck a fearful blow on the head," he said. "The skull was fractured clear across the top. There is a hole over the right ear. The lower left leg is missing." State police took charge of the body and the Lindberghs were notified. The press announcement gave only briefest details. No word was forthcoming during the night from the parents. Efforts to bet the "intermediaries" to comment were without result. There were a number of them, some endorsed by Col. Lindbergh and others acting upon their own initiative. The most active were Dr. Condon of New York and Curtis, the Norfolk shipbuilder. The others were Morris Rosner—mystery man with connections dipping into the underworld; Salvy Spitalo and Irving Bliz—also presumed to have the confidence of gang members; and Gaston B. Means, acting as the agent of Mrs. Edward B. McLean. Private detectives and newspapers also were active in separate search movements. How Made Possible All these "intermediaries" have moved like secret shadows through the weeks of investigation. They explained that any other course would endanger the life of the child. It was this secrecy that made possible the $50,000 "Jafise" hoax by which that sum was paid to a man near a Yonkers, N. Y., cemetery on the man's promise to return the child. The Norfolk intermediaries—Curtis and two associates—were even more active than "Jafise," employing airplanes, yachts and fast motorcars in negotiations that ran up and down the Atlantic seaboard and out to sea. Col. Lindbergh himself participated in these negotiations as recently as yesterday it was learned. Authorities understood that at the moment the body was discovered the aviator was seeking to contact the kidnapers somewhere off Long Island. Mrs. McLean, the Washington woman who, acting independently, put up $100,000 in an effort to return the child to his parents, and who now charges Gaston B. Means her agent, appropriated the money to his own use, declined to be quoted. Her attorney said she was greatly shocked and grieved. Efforts Pursued Efforts at definite identification were pursued even after the police, the nurse and the county physician had satisfied themselves that the skeleton was that of the Lindbergh baby. A physician who was present at the baby's birth was called in early today, and added substantiation to the earlier identification. Neither parent had viewed the body up to an early hour today, so far as could be learned; however, an automobile having Col. Lindbergh as one of its passengers, arrived at the Hopewell estate at 3 A. M. The flier was ready to lend his active support to the hunt for the murderer of his child. The mysterious ransom note, reputedly demanding $50,000 for the baby's safe return, still was withheld from publication. Col. Schwartzkopf, commanding the of clothing or a piece of cloth that convinced them contact had been established with the actual kidnapers. And so the theory had to be considered that the kidnapers, believed by many officials to have been crazed, killed their tiny victim almost immediately, stripped off the sleeping suit, hid after the body had been cast aside in the hidden hollow where it was found set about obtaining ransom for a child they knew could never be returned to its parents alive.

Discovery of the child's skeleton was made by William Allen, Negro truckman, his truck, driving the Hopewell-Mount Rice highway, had halted, and Allen had left it to enter the woods.

Brush and undergrowth blocked his path. He stooped and pushed it aside.

Beneath the brush, underneath a layer of rotting leaves lay the body of Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr., only child of Anne, daughter of the late Senator Dwight W. Morrow, and Charles Lindbergh.

Clinging to the decomposed body was a weathered-worn flannel that had kept the baby warm that night of March 1 when his nurse tucked him into his crib. These shreds of baby clothing were identification enough; these, and the matted, curly blonde hair.

Today, a horror-kindled incentive drove forces of the law to unrestrained hunt for the murderer. The leases of secrecy and of fear for the baby's safety no longer held. It was no longer necessary to exercise extreme care. Murder had been done.

Skull Fractured A compound fracture of the skull caused death. The murder evidently was done very soon after the kidnapping, probably within an hour. A mad man apparently, muscled either by an intense hatred or an overpowering fear, struck the child dead. Physicians described it as a "terrific blow."

No weapon has been found. There was added possibility the baby had been hurled violently from a motorcar.

State police of New Jersey, who have been in direct charge of the search for the baby since the night, 73 days ago, when the voice of Col. Lindbergh over a telephone said, "my baby has been kidnapped," made the identification of the body. A physician added confirmation. Later Miss Betty Gow, the baby's nurse, said she was "quite certain" the body was that of the Lindbergh child.

The parents themselves remained "complete" in the background while their greatest tragedy was being written in black headlines around the world.

Mrs. Lindbergh and her mother, Mrs. Dwight Morrow, were at the Hopewell estate. Col. Lindbergh was absent, engaged in the baby hunt with Curtis, the Norfolk "intermediary." He returned early this morning.

Close friends said Mrs. Lindbergh, who is preparing for another baby in the late summer, had accepted the news with her "usual equanimity."

One of the strange, weird jests of the horror that for 73 days had turned the Sourdland estate of the Lindbergh into a tragic heartbreak house was the discovery of the body virtually at its doorstep.

Running through the brush-grown land, and passing within 75 feet of the baby's burial place is a hurriedly to carry to the world news of the baby hunt—and its excited messages of hope, of new clues, of imminent discoveries passed hardly more than whisper distance from the object of the hunt.

In Thick Grown Scrub The spot where the body was found is thick grown scrub. The brush now is heavy-leaved, infilled with a heavy grass. The dead leaves of a happier autumn form a patch carpet over the ground. Shortly after 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon a truck hauling timbers to be used in a moving job stopped beside the road. ## SPRING FEVER

NOT exactly lazy.
Yet I want to sit
In the morning haze
And just dream a bit.
Haven't got ambition
For a single thing—
Regular condition
Every bloom in spring.

Want to sleep at noontime
But along at noontime
Hut to go to bed.
Find myself a-zealin'
For a sunny spot—
Just that springy feelin'.
That is what I've got.

Like to set a wishin'
For a pipe an' book.
Like to a-fishin'
In a meadow brook.
With some fish deceiver,
Underneath—
Jest the old spring fever.
That's what's ailing me!

MENU FOR DINNER

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE FISH FOR DINNER

Salmon Loaf Egg Sauce
Baked Potatoes
Buttered Spinach
Radishes Spring Onions
Rhubarb Turnovers Coffee

Salmon Loaf, Serving 6
1-2 cups salmon
1 cup bread crumbs
2 eggs
1-3 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons celery
2 tablespoons parsley
2 tablespoons butter

Mix ingredients. Pour into buttered loaf pan. Bake 30 minutes in moderate oven. Unmold carefully and surround with sauce. Garnish with parsley.

Egg Sauce
3 tablespoons butter
4 tablespoons milk
2 cups milk
1-3 teaspoon paprika
1-4 teaspoon celery salt
1-2 teaspoon salt
2 egg yolks beaten

Melt butter in add flour. When blended, add milk and seasonings. Cook slowly and stir constantly until creamy sauce forms. Beat egg yolks with fork and add several tablespoonsful of hot sauce. Mix well and pour into cooking sauce. Beat 1 minute and serve at once.

Rhubarb Turnovers
2 cups flour
1-2 teaspoon salt
2-3 cup lard
2 tablespoons cold water

Mix flour, salt and lard. Mixing with knife, slowly add cold water. When stiff dough forms, divide it into 6 parts. Roll out each piece an add portions of rhubarb mixture. Fold edges of dough over corners. Moisten edges of the dough with cold water before folding together. Pinch the edges. Then prick tops with fork. Place 2 inches apart on baking sheets or pan. Bake 30 minutes in moderate oven.

Rhubarb Filling
3 cups diced rhubarb
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup sugar
1-2 teaspoon cinnamon
1-2 teaspoon nutmeg
3 tablespoons butter
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Mix ingredients quickly with fork. If mixture is allowed to stand long before placing on pieces of dough it will draw juice and be too thin to use.

Rich Bachelors Under Fire Of Business Women

Washington (AP)—Business women are going gunning for wealthy bachelors—not as husbands, but to prevent their "unhappy" married women's places in the business world.

The National Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs is making a nation wide survey to determine if there is discrimination against married women.

The ranks of business are filled with wealthy bachelors, to whom business is a pastime and not a livelihood," says Mrs. Geline MacDonald Bowman of Richmond, the president of the federation.

"If those who do not actually need work are to be discharged these bachelors should be the first to go. There are also many married men whose wives have independent incomes. For every married woman discharged let one of these married men go also."

Closing of Bend School on Monday

Monday, May 9th, marked the closing of the Bend school after a successful year. In spite of the disagreeable weather, there was quite a gathering of parents, relatives and friends present to enjoy the beautiful basket dinner at noon, with ice cream in generous helpings served as the concluding course. It proved a happy occasion for all present.

The graduates of the school are Alice Hill, Gladys Rosbrook, Rebecca Bennett, and George Miller. Those neither absent nor tardy were Gertrude Cornells and Robert Fisher. Honorable mention should be made of Ruth Cornells of the first grade who has a perfect record in spelling. Marcelle Bennett and George Miller have perfect records for 400 spelling lessons.

The teacher, Miss Ruth Bowers, who has taught this school for two years, has been engaged for another year.

Senorita Anzaldúa To Give Recital For Kiwanis Tues.

Senorita Connelia Anzaldúa, coloratura soprano, will be the guest of the Dixon Kiwanis club at its regular meeting next Tuesday noon at the Christian church. Following the luncheon, Senorita Anzaldúa will present a diversified program of American and Spanish operatic airs. A few weeks ago, the youthful Spania soprano while recuperating from a recent operation at the home of Editor and Mrs. Frank Nangle of Paw Paw, appeared before the Kiwanis club in this city. Senorita Anzaldúa consented to the unanimous request to appear again before the club members and their friends and the date for next Tuesday has been arranged.

Secretary William J. Sullivan has arranged for the holding of the recital in the church auditorium following the regular luncheon at which the soloist will be the guest of the club. Arrangements have been made to provide for any who care to attend the recital and the luncheon and several requests have already been received. A charge will be made for the luncheon and entertainment, and any who are unable to attend the former, may hear the program in the auditorium, for which a smaller charge will be made. Any who plan to attend are urged to make reservations for the luncheon before 6 o'clock Saturday evening with either Secretary W. J. Sullivan or with J. L. Glassburn.

Wedding of Local Couple Announced

Announcement is made of the wedding on May 11th, of Miss Leota Bearbow and Theodore McPherson in Oregon, Rev. D. Y. Knapp, pastor of the First Methodist church in Oregon, performed the ceremony at the parsonage to the church.

The young people went immediately to housekeeping in the new cottage which the bridegroom has had constructed and furnished one mile north of Castle Rock, on the banks of the lovely Rock River.

Mrs. McPherson is the charming and attractive eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Bearbow, who reside near Lowell Park, and Mr. McPherson is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. James McPherson of Grand Detour township.

Both young people are well and favorably known and their many friends extend heartfelt best wishes for their future happiness.

Annual Memorial Services Sunday

Dixon Post, No. 299, of the Grand Army of the Republic and their Auxiliary, Dixon Woman's Relief Corps will hold their annual memorial services at the G. A. R. hall Sunday afternoon at 2:30. Rev. Walter W. Marshall, pastor of the First Baptist church will deliver the address. Mrs. Modereba Jones, President of the Corps requests that all officers be present and wear white. All who wish to attend are invited to the program.

May Breakfast For Ashton Club

The Ashton Woman's club will hold their first May breakfast in the dining room of the Masonic hall in Ashton Saturday. An interesting program will include a talk by Mrs. Deutsch of Dixon, president of the Lee County Federation of Women's clubs; a report of the district convention held at Galena last Thursday and Friday, by Mrs. Losey; a vocal solo by Miss Helen Attig; and a violin solo by Miss Lucile Hart.

NEW EVENING DRESSES MADE IN TWO COLORS—

Paris (AP)—Two colored evening dresses are a new smart fashion fancy. Frocks with pale blue bodies and black skirts, white bodies and red skirts and sea-green draped bodies and white skirts were launched with the Easter season.

The use of two fabrics—one shiny, one dull—in the same frock is another new idea in the evening mode.

BETTER PATCH THIS ONE UP: SEPARATED A WEEK—

Los Angeles, May 13 (AP)—Sally Eilers, film actress, and Hoot Gibson, star of western motion pictures, have about decided their separation is all a mistake. The actress said she would meet with her actor-husband "to talk things over" within a few days.

Miss Eilers and her husband have been separated since last Saturday.

Training Classes Met Last Night

Last night the training class of the Young People's Conference met at the Christian church as usual.

The first few minutes were spent in instruction of song directing or a few fundamentals of conducting. The main theme of the instruction was to be natural.

To the officers of young people's societies, Dick Choate said, "Officers of a society have the biggest job. If you won't accept the responsibility step out and let someone else do the thing. If you get down in the 'dumps' after the revival meeting is over get into action and you'll lose that feeling. But you must WORK."

"Officers are the ones that are going to have to do the work and should realize the responsibility. Officers should be true blue Christians. If you're not right don't expect the rest to be. As leaders of young people you are especially responsible. Your work is large for a person is twenty-eight or thirty years of age very few come to Christ."

"You can't do everything you want to and maybe you will have to give more time than anyone else."

"The question comes, 'What should we do in the next few weeks?' When interest is high prayer is needed. Build a constructive program around Christ. Believe in prayer and use it. Let the leaders examine themselves. Are you a dictator or a friendly, let's do this type? A leader gets things done better than a driver. Are you doing your part? Remember what you read in the Bible is for you as well as anyone else."

"If the executive committee of a society wonders what's wrong, make an investigation. See what is wrong with the individuals. In most cases it is because they haven't the quiet hour of daily devotion. Is your membership Christian? Are the right people in the right places? A change of officers is necessary occasionally."

"Examine your methods. Put good points on one side and bad on the other. Strive to eliminate the bad points and strengthen the good. A leader must be prepared and be able to let people know he is 'boss'. He must speak distinctly and clearly. He should be definite and let people know what he is going to do."

These helpful suggestions should assist the officers and workers in all the churches touched by hearing them.

The meeting tonight at 6:45 will continue the work of last evening and will be centered around the subject of, "What We Should Do in the Next Few Weeks."

Harold Six Years Old; Party Today

Harold, young son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Johnson of 514 E. Chamberlain street, is six years old today and this afternoon, he is celebrating his birthday. His friends, with games and a general good time, Mrs. Johnson is serving the youngsters with ice cream in cups, candy and cake. The table is lovely in flowers and the attractive cake, pink and white are the colors. The youngsters all received nice pretty favors. Master Harold received a number of fine gifts, with the best wishes of his young friends for many happy returns of the day.

HAVE BEEN GUESTS AT WALGREEN ESTATE—

Mrs. Charles B. Cory, president of the Society for the Preservation of Wild Flowers of the state of Illinois, and Mrs. Frank Donahue, society editor of the Chicago Daily News, arrived yesterday for a visit with Mrs. Charles R. Walgreen, at Hazelwood, the Walgreen estate. One of the most beautiful spots in Rock River valley, Hazelwood is now at the height of its beauty in its new green of tree and shrub, and the bright touches of the early flowers, especially the display of tulips, which beggar description.

LIGHT BRIGADE TO MEET SATURDAY—

The Light Brigade of St. Paul's Lutheran church will meet at the church tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. All children are invited.

As the box for Konnorock School in Virginia is to be packed at this meeting, toys and outgrown clothing and any other donations are to be brought at this time.

MISS VAN BIBBER TO SPEND WEEK END HERE—

Miss Hazel Van Bibber of Rockford is expected to come to Dixon to spend the week-end with her parents, Chief of Police and Mrs. J. D. Van Bibber.

SISTER RETURNS AFTER VISIT HERE—

Mrs. John O'Neal of Mitchell, S. D., who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Harry Johnson, left for her home Thursday.

YOUR CHILDREN

by Olive Roberts Barton

We have a mistaken idea about the happiness of children. All children are carefree and happy. We dismiss them with this sweeping statement and feel no further responsibility in the matter. But it is all a mistake. They have troubles in as great a proportion to their age as our own. Even if they did not suffer vicariously through our troubles, which they do very often, their own problems worry and puzzle them greatly.

One of the most unfortunate things in the life of a child is the feeling of guilt about something that is not serious at all. If the truth were told, an enormous percentage of children carry these secret burdens around with them day after day and they are very miserable indeed.

The child who has succumbed to a temptation and copied a word in school may worry about it for weeks, and have an inner conviction that he is going straight to hell. He may have broken some thing he has not owned up to, or fibbed a bit, or failed to keep a promise, or gone some place he was not allowed. Any of a hundred small offenses he may have committed either deliberately or impulsively and it may color every thought and action for weeks thereafter.

Fear Brings Evasiveness
Yes, he may be afraid of being found out, too. That only makes it worse. Fear of punishment seals his lips when he would confess and be done with it. First we tell a child in strong language that if he does so and so he is wicked; and then when it has happened, for children are only human, we put him in the position of being a hypocrite because we almost dare him to tell us all about it.

The boy or girl who has a real human being for a parent who understands the weakness of the flesh, and the temptations and impulses of childhood, is very fortunate. If he can go right up to his mother or father and own up to the best thing in the world that can happen. I cannot emphasize the importance of this too strongly—to cultivate the confessional with your own children, no matter how small, even if a few just punishments are omitted. Holding punishment over a child's head does this. It not only makes him secretive and cunning, which is a thousands times worse than any snap-shot misdeed, but it makes him feel guilty and unworthy and mean in his heart of hearts. We talk so much today about avoiding inferiority yet we have not even tried digging out one of the main roots of it—and this is the root!

TO CHAMPAIGN FOR THE WEEK END—

Misses Alice Powell and Miss Margaret Ballou will go to Champaign where they expect to spend the week end with friends. Both are graduates of the University of Illinois.

Truthseekers Class Elected Officers

The Truthseekers class of Bethel U. E. church met at the home of Mrs. Leroy Gaul, Mrs. Joe Jeanguenot and Miss Edith Smythe being assistant hostesses.

The meeting was called to order by the president. Thirty-three members answered the roll call with scripture verses concerning some mother. Mrs. Gaul chose as her devotion the story of Hannah and her earnest plea to God for a son. The story was read from Hurlburt's "Story of the Bible."

Election of officers for the coming year was then taken up, and those elected were:

Miss Lona Beckingham, president
Mrs. Oscar Cramer, vice-president
Mrs. Joe Jeanguenot, ... rec. secy.
Mrs. Ruth Ramsey, ... Corr. Secy.
Miss Edith Smythe, ... Treasurer

Following the business session a very pleasant social time was spent and several numbers were given in honor of mothers. Twelve visitors were present and 2 new members taken in. The past year has been good but we are expecting a greater year than the past because of the new staff.

Remember our motto, "Seek the Truth and Forsake It Not."

Woman Sea-Goer Learns Tricks Of Good Grooming

WASHINGTON, D. C.—After crossing the ocean 20 times Miss Mary C. Kennedy of Lafayette, Indiana, has worked out a system whereby she says a woman can always look fresh and feel buoyant while traveling.

She advocates plenty of fresh air, lots of exercise and an occasional meal on deck as a means of avoiding sea-sickness.

"Travel light and always take along a tiny electric iron to keep your costumes pressed" is her advice for keeping fresh and well groomed. Ten European tours have taught her a good deal about comfortable traveling.

A good-sized suitcase and handbag have been the sum total of her European luggage for many years. Yet out of these bags have come costumes suitable for every occasion.

Miss Kennedy is general director of the National Business and Professional women good will tours. She will make her 21st ocean crossing this summer.

PEACE AND WAR.

Tucked away in an obscure position, a brief cable dispatch the other day told how a Japanese troop train was wrecked near Harbin, Manchuria, and added that Japanese officers on the spot believed that the wreck had been caused by Russian partisans.

Apparently this news item has drifted on down the stream of time and will be heard from no more; but some day a seemingly unimportant little story like that may land on the front page in black-face type, to acquaint us with the fact that Japan and Russia are to go to war.

For that is the kind of situation that now exists in the Far East; tense, strained, capable of bursting into flame at any moment from the smallest spark. This business of the wrecked troop train might have done it. If the world has had bad luck, some incident of no more intrinsic importance will.

Wars have a way of beginning over minor jars of that kind. It may seem absurd to think of Russia and Japan flying at one another because a railway train went into a ditch; but all the great nations of the earth went into a ditch grappily in 1914 because a half-baked student killed an Austrian prince, and the American Civil War got underway because the federal government tried to send supplies to a fort on the South Carolina coast.

The point to all of this is that wars never come suddenly. Through many years they build themselves up. Their causes are piled up like some tremendously powerful but relatively inert explosive, which can be set off by the concussion of a tiny fulminate of mercury detonator. A pistol shot or a train wreck can be that detonator.

Work for peace, then, if it is to do any good, must begin long before the crucial moment of accident arrives. It must begin when there seems to be no longer of war. If it is to be plain about it—a terrible war in the Orient is to be averted, the great powers must at once work for peace a lot harder than they have yet shown any signs of doing.

A HOSPITAL CASE.

An old, unemployed man, whose leg had been severed from his body by a train as he tried to "bum" a ride back home, was refused admittance at a Cleveland hospital recently. Indignant protests have been greeting the announcement of this action.

Whether the man could have been saved had he received treatment in this hospital instead of having to be rushed to another doesn't matter. It is the fact that those who could have stopped suffering looked on, callously, and did nothing, that has received criticism.

It should be kept in mind that one such instance by no means can be used to reflect on hospital and medical organizations of the country. As a rule every patient, regardless of age or station, is given the best treatment that medical science can offer. The particular hospital in this instance regrets the unfortunate happening. A specific case is never cause for generalization.

A TIMELY SUGGESTION.

Mrs. Aida de Acosta Breckenridge, of the American Child Health Association, made a timely suggestion the other day when she asked those who have the formation of children's ideals in their keeping, to let boys and girls have faith in a decent world.

There is much cynicism abroad. Older people, with a background which helps them in making comparisons, do not realize the disturbance that a careless remark or witnessed unpleasantness can leave in a child's mind. The print goes deep. It never quite heals. And it leaves a scar that not all the winds of happier springs can ever blow away.

Childhood lasts such a little while. It is the magic period that is meant for happiness, before world-venturings begin. If children do not gain a sane, bright outlook on life during the formative years their eyes will always be clouded.

No one seems to know how much this (naval construction) bill would cost. . . . It is the type of bill which will rise to plague us in the future just as some of our commitments in the past are used now as the basis for refusal of reductions in appropriations.—Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska.

BARNEY OLDFIELD VOWS HE'LL GET WORLD'S SPEED RECORD FOR U. S.

Harry Miller Is Designer Of Car

May Reach A Speed Of 360 M.P.H.

By DAN THOMAS
NEA Service Writer

Los Angeles — The world's automobile speed record will be returned to the United States early next year. And Barney Oldfield, former king of racing drivers, is the man who will accomplish this feat, according to none other than Barney himself.

"The only things needed to break Sir Malcolm Campbell's present record of 254 miles per hour are good eyesight, nerves, and a good car," Barney declares. "My eyes are just as good as they ever were. As for nerve, I still have plenty of that. And my car will be a sensation when it is completed. I'll either set a new record or they'll be using a basket to pick up the car and myself."

A short time ago the 54-year-old ex-racing champion announced his intention of going after Campbell's record at Daytona Beach, Fla., early next year. Now, for the first time, he has revealed the plans for the car with which he hopes to shatter that record.

May Hit 360 Per

Construction of the car, designed by Oldfield and Harry Miller, famous builder of race automobiles, will cost approximately $50,000. It will contain a 24-cylinder motor, constructed in three banks of eight and may reach a speed of 360 miles an hour—more than 100 miles an hour faster than man has ever traveled on land before. Cylinders will have a five-inch bore and a five and one-half inch stroke, developing 3000 horsepower at 4000 revolutions a minute.

The motor alone will cost approximately $25,000 to build, and will weigh 2600 pounds. Total weight of the car will be 6500 pounds.

Oldfield's plans call for three large super-chargers, six magneto, and 36-inch wheels with six-inch special tires. The car will be a four-wheel drive and will be the last word in streamlining, even the driver's small compartment being enclosed in a pointed glass cover.

One interesting difference between the lines of this car and

Looking over a model of the car expected to bring the world's auto speed record to the United States next year is Barney Oldfield, left, former race driver, who will pilot the streamlined speedster, and Harry Miller, auto builder and designer of the car.

th one driven by Campbell is that Oldfield is leaving the wheels exposed whereas they were enclosed on Campbell's car. Barney believes that the exposed wheels will permit more speed in that there will be no suction caused by the terrific speed.

An exact miniature of the car with which Barney expects to make his assault on the record already has been built. It is 26 inches long, exactly one-eighth of the size of the completed car which will have an over-all length of 26 feet, four inches and a 15-foot, six-inch wheelbase.

"I expect to leave soon for the east to test our model in the airplane wind tunnel of several big eastern factories," Barney says.

Better Than Campbell's
"In my opinion we will have a better car than Campbell's all the way through. It will have 1500 more horsepower and will weigh 1000 pounds less. The elimination of the tail fin such as Campbell had will give us additional speed, too.

"I have been sitting back for quite a number of years watching foreigners come over here and set new speed records. In my opinion that is an insult to the United States and its automotive engineers. Now I am going 'after a record' and get it. Don't get the impression that by taking this step I am going back in the racing game. I quit that in 1918 after 16 years of it. That was enough. Now, I am simply going to bring the speed record back to the United States.

"My car will be constructed in this country by American mechanics and with American materials. It will be an absolute domestic product. And with the driving experience I have had, I know I can set a new record."

when the free-will offering for the evangelist will be received.

A large delegation from the Grace Evangelical Sunday school, The Live-Wire class, was present in a body. Rev. N. A. Borop of Lansing was present with an auto load from that city, also Rev. J. Q. Moore, pastor of the Christian church of Sterling.

Two services for everybody are scheduled for Sunday. At 2:30 Rev. Cantrell will preach upon "The Signs of the Time and the Coming of Christ." At 7:30 he will preach upon "Lost and Still Living." The campaign will continue all of next week, excepting Monday night which is observed as rest night, and will come to a close on May 22.

In last night's sermon, Rev. Cantrell stressed the importance of backing up faith with action. He emphasized the necessity of Bible reading as requisite to a strong faith in God. Following is a brief sketch of his discourse:

"On last evening we stressed the necessity of faith—that it is impossible, to please God without faith. But are we to assume that it is enough just to have faith? James says, chapter 2, verse 17: 'Even so, faith if it have not works is dead in itself.' When God sent his only begotten Son into this world that whosoever believeth in him should not perish but have eternal life. He meant for us to trust Him. It is not enough for you to confess, or to profess faith in Christ, you must back up your profession with action."

"To illustrate, suppose that chair were a boat—representing Christ. And suppose I wished to cross over the Rock river—or say the old River Jordan to Heaven. Can I get over by standing on the bank and saying over and over, 'yes, I believe that boat can take me over? No! But when I trust that boat, get in it and begin rowing. I get over!'"

Here the evangelist gave a very dramatic imitation of rowing the skiff, showing how it might dip water and how to bail it out, but to keep going until the shore is reached. "None of us are perfect," he added. "We all make mistakes and sin. What to do about it? Throw up your hands and sink? No! Get busy like you would bail out the boat and keep going. If you sin, ask Christ to forgive you and keep going."

What Use Mosquitoes?

"Everything God has made in this world has a purpose. Sometimes people question His wisdom but when you look into things deeply enough you will find every thing is designed for some purpose. 'Why a mouse?' somebody asks. 'Well, go home and ask the cat.' And mosquitoes, somebody asks, 'why are they here?'"

"I was not for them. Some of you would sit around in the summer time and your blood would be consumed. They make you get up and hustle and so cause your blood to circulate. A guy asked me the other day, 'Why evangelists?' The same reason as the mosquito."

"Go to the ant thou sluggard." Yes, God says in His Book that we can learn something even from an ant. Everything is planned for our benefit. Christ shows us how we can come into possession of all the wonderful blessings that God has prepared for us by trusting Him."

Faith and the Timplen Tunnel

"Christ said if you all have faith you can remove mountains. A young Italian several years ago looked on the Alps and wanted them removed. He had faith that the miracle of removing them could be wrought. Not to actually root them up and remove them, but to get them out of the way, so far as travel was concerned. He got a vision, and backed it up by action. He made a trip to visit capitalists in Europe and America and told them how the Alps could be conquered, not as Hannibal and Napoleon had done, but by boring a tunnel for a railway through them. Men believed him and invested their money. By faith he began boring. On each side of the mountain the work of boring the great hole through the mountains began. They met in the center and the great feat was accomplished and the great tunnel over seven miles long made it possible for you to pass into Italy."

Had he read it promptly and heeded the warning not to inform authorities, negotiations for pay-

as though the Alps were not even there."

The Lindbergh Baby

"Tonight the news flashed over the radio that the Lindbergh baby had been found near the home but a skeleton. The cruel kidnappers had apparently killed the child and had collected the ransom, not caring how heinous was their crime. A few years ago I was in a bunch that was leading me that way. I wasn't intending to become a criminal but I was drifting that way with the crowd I was in. If I had not turned to Jesus Christ when I did, I would now be in jail, the penitentiary or dead. All of the fellows I used to associate with in the old days are either dead or in the insane asylum. Since I trusted Christ for Salvation he has transformed my life and given me real joy in living."

"There may be some of you in this audience tonight that are drifting toward the jail, the penitentiary or hell, all because of the crowd you associate with. If those kidnappers of the Lindbergh baby could have found Christ a few years ago and trusted in Him, they would never have done that awful crime. But now they will have a guilty conscience and come to a dismal death and a hopeless grave. Oh, my friends turn from the evil course of your lives before it is too late. A loving God will forgive you and a Mighty Saviour will keep you from evil and suffering and the torment of hell."

A BOOK A DAY

BY BRUCE CATTON
HERE ARE ALL THE CLEWS IN LINDY MYSTERY

If you missed any of the developments in the Lindbergh kidnapping mystery you'll find them all compressed into the 275 exceedingly readable pages of the "True Story of the Lindbergh Kidnaping," by John Bant and Edith Renaud.

"The interests of the world and of the Lindberghs were exactly opposed from the instant that the colonel called in police," say the writers.

The conclusion is not new, nor are many of the facts and theories that are related of the Sourland abduction.

The book recounts the tangled versions of what transpired on that blustery March night when word of the abduction was flashed to the world. With more modesty than their publisher, the authors, in depicting events immediately before and after the kidnapping confess that in "presenting their deduction" they "wish it clearly understood that they do not believe any conclusive, unquestionable, complete and final record of the facts is or can be in existence."

Clews are weighed, one against another, but the authors are commendably skittish of offering conclusions.

The writers stress the fact that Lindy neither opened nor read the ransom note left pinned to the nursery window until two hours after the baby was gone, because he wished to disturb nothing that might afford to telltale clew to authorities.

Had he read it promptly and heeded the warning not to inform authorities, negotiations for payment of ransom and the baby's return might have been accomplished speedily, the writers suggest.

AERIAL FIRE ALARM

East Point, Ga. — Air mail pilot G. E. Thomas flies near his home here with the mail. Early one morning he flew past his home and noticed a blazing fire where his home ought to be. He nosed his heavy plane into a dive and flashed over the blazing structure several times, creating such an uproar that he aroused occupants of the house. After they rushed at Thomas continued on his route. He later learned the house of a neighbor was on fire.

Poor Duncy! He was filled with fright. And 'twas no wonder. His big kite had lifted him up off the ground and now he swayed in air. Wee Scouty, standing down below, exclaimed, "Hey, Duncy! Don't let go. You'd only flop down to the ground. You're safer way up there. Perhaps the wind won't let you out and, when it does, I have no doubt that you will float right back to earth. We'll catch you when you land."

Then Duncy answered, "I'll keep hold and try and be real brave and bold. For goodness sake, if I come down, you Tinies be on hand. The wind, however, didn't fade. The way it picked up shortly made the Tinies start to worry. They all wondered what to do.

The little kite began to climb. "Oh, Duncy, in for it this time," said Copy. "I just hope that he'll be safe when he is through."

"Try kicking! That may make you drop real slowly, so that you won't flop," cried Windy. But it didn't work, though Duncy kicked real hard.

The Tinies watched him rise some more and then they heard the play man roar, "I'll show you how to rescue him, so your day won't be wasted."

"Which one of you can fly a plane? I hope my plan is not in vain. I have a little pedal ship that's made to sail up high."

"If someone here can pedal fast, I know our worry will not hold. That person can pick Duncy off, away up in the air."

The others looked at Windy who said, "Flying's really nothing new to be. I am a flyer, sir. Bring on your little ship."

"I'll promise you I'll do my best to carry out what you suggest." The ship then was brought forth and Windy started on his trip.

(Duncy is rescued in the next story.)

AIR PATHS of GLORY

SIR ARTHUR WHITTEN BROWN

By DEXTER TEED
NEA Service Writer

That pleasant, faced man with graying hair whom you could see almost any day at his desk in the offices of a London, England, electrical firm does not look now like one of the great aviator-heroes of history.

And if you could see him on some late spring afternoon standing beside a headstone in a Surrey cemetery, placing a bunch of new-cut flowers on a thick-turfed grave, you would think that, no, he must be just a mild-mannered business man touched by sentiment. You would be impressed, though when you saw him pause, stand silently and gaze upon the etched name: Capt. Sir John Alcock, D. S. O.

That man would be Sir Arthur Whitten Brown, who 13 years ago on June 15 was in the airplane that wrote the second bright chapter in Atlantic flights.

Taking a Chance
It was less than a month after Commander Read crossed the ocean to England that the then Lieut. Brown and Capt. Alcock took off from Newfoundland, determined to be the first to make a non-stop flight across the Atlantic. The weather reports were not too encouraging, but they decided to take a chance—as your true adventurers will.

Their heavily-laden Vimy-Vickers biplane lifted slowly from the runway, bounced a couple of times and soared out into the gathering mist. Within a few moments, as the Englishmen glanced back, the shore became blurred, and then disappeared entirely. They were on their way—to fame or death.

They expected the worst flying conditions. The worst came. A thick fog, impenetrable as a white cotton blanket, blocked the way. They might have turned back, but for Alcock and Brown there was no turning back. They fought onward.

A Close Shave
The fog didn't clear away. It was necessary to fly by dead reckoning and they couldn't tell how far they were from the surface of the ocean. Once the motor sputtered, hesitated. The plane dipped downward and they thought they were doomed—if they had time to think. But suddenly the motor commenced to fire regularly again. As they caught a fleeting glimpse of rolling waves a few feet below their plane, Alcock jerked open the throttle, nosed the plane upward and with a vibrating roar it lifted out of danger.

Land in Crash
As last their instruments indicated they were over Ireland. They circled the plane, and saw a hole in the clouds. By that time their gas was nearly gone. Alcock took a chance. He nosed the biplane downward. It shot into clear air. A rough field lay below. But they must land—and did.

The plane struck a hummock, bounced along, swerved down and struck on its nose with a shattering crash that hurled the two aviators forward. They crawled out of the wreckage, shook themselves and discovered they were uninjured.

That was the first time man had ever crossed the Atlantic on a non-stop flight in an airplane. American papers carried big headlines, London gave them a tumultuous, wildly-cheering celebration. Both were knighted.

Alcock's Fate
A week later in Normandy Alcock's plane crashed. He was alive when he was lifted out, but he died that fall of injuries and was buried in Surrey. Brown practically

The Committee of Local Improvements of the Village Board put in a side walk past the Hobart Macbeth filling station adding materially to the appearance of the place.

Mr. Macbeth expects to cement the driveway to the station as soon as he can get around to it.

Ashton will soon look its finest when all the gardens in the village get in full bloom. The citizens take great pride in keeping up their lawns and flower gardens. The general public is welcome to stop and view all the rare specimens of plant life that the local people have taken a great deal of care in selecting. The water pools are teeming with fish, frogs and tadpoles. Nature fairly seems to outdo itself in showing what can be done with care and pride of workmanship.

One Year Ago Today — Morton L. Schwartz's Clock Tower won a tie-run of the $3500 Southpoint Handicap at Jamaica, after Sonny Whitney's Rideaway had won the first, a false start caused by the accidental release of the barrier. Clock Tower finished second in the first running.

Five Years Ago Today — Sidney Terris, New York East Sider, out-boxed Stanislaus Loayza, persistent Chilean, in 10 rounds before 18,000 persons at Madison Square Garden. Ruby Goldstein, decision Jimmy Goodrich, former lightweight champion in the six-round semi-final.

Ten Years Ago Today — 45,000 frenzied fans stood up and cheered Morvich, Ben Block's three-year-old son of Runney-made-Hymir to victory over Mosie and John Finn in the classic Kentucky Derby. Morvich took down $48,775 in cash and a $7,000 gold service. Second and third were worth $6,000 and $3,000 to Mosie and John Finn, respectively.

PREAKNESS TO BE RUN IN MUD BY FEW HORSES
Heavy Track Cuts In On Odd On Burgoo King Today

Of the smallest fields in history is slated to go postward tomorrow in the relief of the $50,000 Preakness Stakes, mile and three-eighths classic of the Maryland Jockey Club, has had the feature on the books at odd Pimlico.

Not more than ten, and probably two less than that number were counted as starters as the final tabulation was made of the Ryan, T. P. on hand at Hilltop ready for the second of the big three year old events of the season.

Rain, wind blown driving rain, has swept the course ever since Monday, turning the racing strip into a sloppy morass, dangerous for any horse to try his speed on. With the going sure to be heavy Tick On, the Loma Stable's favorite, came in to the Kentucky Derby last week, gained in favor, and Edward R. Bradley's winner of the Bluegrass Classic, Burgoo King dropped. The Loma colt has shown his liking for muck, while the Bradley colt has given his best performances on fast strips.

Burgoo King arrived at Pimlico late yesterday in fine shape, and was accompanied in the same car by the Greentree Stable's Curacao.

Dixon High Takes Cross-Country Run
By DON HILLIKER
Dixon added another victory last night when the Sterling cross country team lost to the locals 102 1-2 to 107 1-2. Each school entered ten men with first place giving one point, second place two, etc.

Williams and Smith of Dixon ran the 1.7 miles course in 8:57 to tie for the first honors. Dixon's other runners finished as follows: Padgett third, Compton fifth, Ramsey, eighth, Tappanier, fourteenth, Wadsworth fifteenth, Willbrandt, seventeenth, Sitter eighteenth and Warner, nineteenth.

Saturday, May 14, the Dixon track squad, North Central Illinois champions, and undefeated this year, will compete in Freeport for the northwest district title. Coach Bowers has fourteen men entered.

Michigan Defends Big Ten Position
Chicago, May 13—(AP)—Michigan today opened a two-day stand against Ohio State in defense of the leadership of the Western Conference baseball race.

The Wolverines, with victories from their first two starts, meet the Buckeyes today and tomorrow Chicago had the same schedule at Minnesota and Iowa was at Wisconsin for a two-game series. In addition, Purdue meets Indiana tomorrow at Bloomington and Illinois will play Northwestern at Evanston.

BRAVES PROFIT THROUGH ERRORS OF OPPONENTS

The Cubs Act Like Other Teams When Meeting Boston Outfit

BY GAYLE TALBOT
Associated Press Sports Writer
Bill McKelchine's Boston Braves may not win the National League flag this year, but they promise to establish a lasting record for demoralizing the opposition.

In 22 games the batting Bostonians have been helped along by 48 opponents' errors.
The Giants have suffered most from the jinx. In six engagements with the Braves they committed 17 bobbles, eight in one afternoon and five another. Brooklyn made 10 in five games, Philadelphia seven in five.

Now come the league leading Chicago Cubs with a threat to surpass anything previously done. Facing Boston for the first time yesterday, they managed to compile seven errors, more than sufficient to give the Braves an 8 to 3 victory behind Ed Brandt.

The Cubs' young infielders, Bill Herman and Bill Jurgens, divided most of the hard luck between them. Herman with four bobbles and Jurgens with two.

Brandt had the Cubs baffled until the last of the ninth, when Johnny Moore nipped him for a home run with two on. The Cubs cut Chicago's lead over the Braves to two games.
The Brooklyn Dodgers won first blood in their long-awaited series with Cincinnati, 5 to 2, as Babe Phelps batted scoreless ball after the first inning. Joe Stripp and Tony Cucinello, former Reds, played a big part in the victory.

Jens Haines made his initial start of the year for the St. Louis Cardinals and beat the Phillies, 8 to 2. The Cards knocked Jim Elliott from the hill in the second and plastered his three successors.
The Giants' opener at Pittsburgh was rained out, and only one American League engagement escaped the elements. Cleveland nosed out the Boston Red Sox, 5 to 4, when Dick Porter's double scored Ed Ciesel after two were out in the ninth. Earl Webb lost the ball in the sun.

Minor Leagues To Try Cheaper Seats
Chicago, May 13—(AP)—If admission prices have been keeping trade away from baseball games, especially in the "Big Minors," the situation should soon improve, for "two-bit" bleacher seats are coming back in the American Association and probably will come back to the Pacific Coast League.

Harrassed by unsuitable weather which has piled up 39 double-heads during the first month of the season, American Association club owners yesterday voted to install some 25-cent bleacher seats and to admit women and boys under 12 years for 25 cents every day except Sundays and holidays to coax a paying amount of patronage through the gates.

In a formal statement the club owners blamed the weather for all of their attendance troubles.

CONVENTIONS OF TODAY ARE LIKE CROQUET MATCH

Compared With Hectic Campaigns Conducted In The 50's

(Editor's Note:—This is the first of a series of eight articles recounting highlights of political conventions of the past. They trace convention history from the 1850's to the present.)

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE

Washington—(AP)—What issues, what names will resound in the convention halls of the Democratic and Republican parties this year? What drama will be enacted during this, the 20th meeting of the nation's two strongest political forces?

Bowie knives and pistols probably will not be flourished as they were in 1856 when the Democrats in Cincinnati nominated James Buchanan of Pennsylvania on the 17th ballot and probably no delegates will have to knock down the doorkeepers to enter the convention hall as did the Benton delegates from Missouri at that Cincinnati convention.

Compared with the invective-hurling, blood-spilling campaigns of their early days, the quadrennial struggles of the two parties have become as decorous as a mid-Victorian croquet match on a New-Port lawn.

News By Pony Express

In those early days "whispering campaigns" apparently were drowned out by the shouted attacks against the personalities of political leaders.

Political news from the far west came east by steamer and by pony express after running a gantlet of Indians on the warpath. Ritzy families in the bigger towns were proud of their gas lights, the piano duster was a new household accessory and metropolitan "playboys" wore white beaver summer hats.

The census revealed there were 100,000 blacksmiths in the country, 30,000 wheelwrights and the same number of wagon makers as editors.

Buchanan Wins

In the 1856 campaign the newly formed Republican party chose General John Fremont, while ex-president Millard Fillmore was the candidate of the "Know-Nothings," opposed to "romanticism" and foreign influence. Buchanan was elected.

Then as the war god began to survey a boundary line across the middle of the United States on which to paint a streak of blood came the conventions of 1860 and with them the name of Abraham Lincoln.

The raid of John Brown, his execution for treason and overt acts of violence had fanned the flames of sectional hostility over slavery to a point where feeble attempts by conciliators to extinguish them were unavailing.

The word "secession" was in many mouths. Both conventions seethed, only slightly controlling the enmity that boiled under the surface.

In April of 1860 the Democrats convened at Charleston, "seat of secession." Southern oratory was in full flower. The Italian opera "afforded nightly treats for the cognoscenti of the convention, and Gilmore's band from Boston played for the promenaders at the battery who looked out upon a soft blue sea."

Northern and southern Democrats could not agree on a slavery plank in the platform, and the southerners withdrew. Later at Baltimore Stephen Douglas of Illinois was nominated. More southern states withdrew and nominated John C. Breckinridge of Kentucky. A group of moderates nominated John Bell of Tennessee.

Triumph Over Politicians Hailed

The Republicans nominated Lincoln over Seward, a victory hailed by the northern press as a triumph of the people over the politicians. Antimasonry increased, and as the breach grew larger Republican power increased. Lincoln received a large majority of electoral votes. The day before he was elected New York papers printed bulletins saying South Carolina would secede.

War came. It raged for three years, and then another campaign was on. Attacks on Presidents of recent years have been no more savage than those made upon Lincoln. Some Washington correspondents professed to see a tyrannical tendency in Lincoln's frequent reading of books about Napoleon.

He also was criticized for extravagance in the alleged purchase of a 10-wheeled cart at a cost of $80,000.

But when the Republicans met, Connecticut sang the theme song: "Connecticut gives her 12 votes for that pure and patriotic statesman, Abraham Lincoln." He was nominated on the first ballot.

The Democrats nominated General George B. McClellan, union army officer, on a platform declaring the war to be a failure, a platform which McClellan himself repudiated. The south, of course, was out of the 1864 race because of the war.

The Democratic platform said that "public welfare demands immediate efforts for a cessation of hostilities with a view to a convention of the states to the end that peace may be restored at the earliest possible moment."

But Lincoln won with 2,330,552 votes; McClellan and received 1,835,985 votes.

"Make it Four, Father?"

If you once have a taste of the New NuGrape, you always come back for more. It's just that sort of a flavor—a mysterious something, born of plump Concord grapes and sunshine. There is nothing anywhere near like it, with its bouquet of dew-ripened grapes, and its sparkling, dancing life—as of champagne.

Next to impossible to keep the New NuGrape on ice at home—the family sneaks in for "just another bottle," even when a case is purchased at a time. But since Nature and Science brewed it and brought it to its delightful state of appetizing perfection—you can drink as much as you please as often as you please.

There is no substitute for the New NuGrape. Accept none, for it would only mean disappointment. The genuine is sold everywhere for 5c.

Sidelights In News In Capital Of United States

By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington D. C.—Senator Dave Reed of Pennsylvania, whose sharp tongue more than once has startled his colleagues, has done so again with his statement that "If this country ever needed a Mussolini it needs one now." Borah of Idaho and Johnson of California immediately challenged him, causing the Pennsylvania senator to explain that he was not proposing to make a Mussolini of President Hoover, but rather that he saw the need for greater courage in public office.

On the heels of this heated debate on the floor of the Senate came the President's direct appeal to the people for support. In this appeal, President Hoover took a leaf from Woodrow Wilson's book on Presidential maneuvering. Wilson was the last President to take his case to the people in a fight with congress, having done so twice in his two administrations.

Each time, however, Wilson went much further than President Hoover indicates as yet of going. WILSON TOURED NATION

Wilson took to the stump on nationwide tours. The first was during the national preparedness campaign in 1916 when he sought popular support for a billion dollar program for expansion of the army and navy. The chief opposition to the project was within the democratic majorities in the house and senate. And he won handsome victories. The second time was during the fight for America's entry into the League of Nations against a senate controlled by a republican majority. On that stupping tour Wilson was stricken with the illness that ended his career as an active campaigner.

HOOVER APPEAL MORE MODEST

President Hoover's appeal for popular support is a much more modest effort to drive congress than were either of the Wilson campaigns. It is hampered also by the fact that time does not permit a Presidential swing around the circle or to light fires at home under reluctant legislators, and by the further fact that Hoover himself is

NOW SCIENCE TELLS WHY BRAN IS SO GOOD FOR HEALTH

Kellogg's ALL BRAN Has "Bulk" and Vitamin B; Also Healthful Iron

By using Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, millions of people have overcome common constipation, and the headaches, loss of appetite and energy that so frequently result.

New laboratory tests show ALL-BRAN supplies two things needed to overcome temporary and recurring constipation: "Bulk" to exercise the intestines. Vitamin B to help tone the intestinal tract.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of lettuce. Within the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently it clears the intestines of wastes.

Further experiments prove ALL-BRAN provides twice as much blood-building iron as an equal amount by weight of beef liver.

Eat this delicious cereal and avoid pills and drugs. They cause artificial action, and often lead to harmful habits.

Try two tablespoonfuls of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN daily—sufficient to overcome most types of constipation. If your intestinal trouble is not relieved this way, see your doctor.

ALL-BRAN has a delicious, nut-sweet flavor. Enjoy as a cereal with milk or cream, or use in making fluffy bran muffins, breads, omelets, etc. Recipes on the red-and-green package. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

a candidate for renomination and reelection this year.

The immediate reaction in house and senate, among the opposition in and out of his own party was to charge that both his special message, the sharpest he has ever written, and his popular appeal was a bit of campaign maneuvering.

However it was significant that on the very day the President launched his two-barreled attack, a house committee voted the proposed soldier's bonus into the discard and a senate committee accepted a treasury-sponsored tax bill after weeks of stubborn indecision.

PATTERNS.

Have you used any of the Mariani Martin dress patterns. They are very stylish and well fitting. See the society page for further details.

FOREST FIRE COST HIGH
Pendleton, Ore.—Some idea of what forest fires cost the United States as a whole may be gleaned from the fact that it cost the forest service $2,487 to combat 97 fires, which burned over 7,114 acres of Umatilla National Forest, in 1931.

Belleville is spending $4,000 for surfacing its streets this year.

SIDE GLANCES

By George Clark

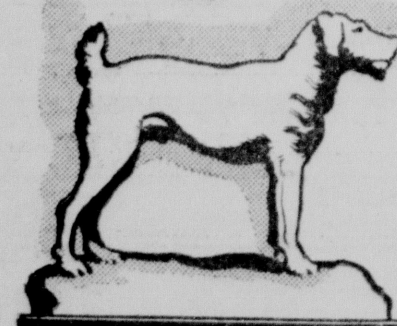

"My business is going to the dogs. I'm going to have to drop in on the office some time and give the force a pep talk."

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

LADDIE BOY.

THE SMITHSONIAN STATUE OF PRESIDENT HARDING'S DOG WAS CAST IN BRONZE MADE FROM 10,314 PENNIES. NEWSBOYS IN EVERY STATE OF THE UNITED STATES CONTRIBUTED TO THE FUND.

A FEW BUCKETS OF WATER TIED UP THE HARBOR OF NEW YORK CITY FOR 48 HOURS. ... 1928 ... THE WATER WAS DISTRIBUTED OVER THE HARBOR AS FOG.

A cubic mile of fog may contain scarcely a gallon of water. The small particles making up a fog are so minute that it takes some 25,000 placed end to end, to make an inch. In May, 1928, dozens of ships were held up for two days in the harbor of New York City, and there was one collision after another. "Silence Zones" sometimes occur in a fog and add to the dangers of navigation. Within these freak zones a foghorn may not be heard only a short distance away but will be plainly audible at much greater distances. Patches of uneven temperature and humidity are believed to cause this condition.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

SUSAN CARLIN, 20, and beautiful, has become engaged to marry ERNEST HEATH, her former employer. She is secretly in love with BOB DUNBAR, who is said to have "an understanding" with DENISE ACKROYD, a girl of his own age. Heath's wife has just secured a Reno divorce. Susan's chief motive in promising to marry Heath is the desire to provide for the future of her ALTHA JESSIE, who has cared for her since childhood. Her aunt is ill and Heath has arranged to send her north. Susan is staying with the WILSONS, old friends. BEN LAMPMAN, an old auditor, shoots at Heath one night in a fit of jealousy, but the affair is hushed up. Susan tries to tell Heath she does not love him enough to marry him but does not succeed. He takes her to the theater where she sees Dunbar for the first time in months. Bob has tried to see her without success. He is angered at seeing her with Heath.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXIX

"HELLO!" It was Jack Waring. Susan smiled with pleasure. She had not seen him for several weeks. She was a little embarrassed, though, by the man's air of knowingness.

"You are a stranger," he commented, taking her arm and steering her through the noonday crowd. "Come and have a soda. I want to talk to you."

Susan followed him into the shining drug palace and they sat down on high stools facing a disconcertingly bright mirror.

"I'll just have a glass of milk. I'm having lunch with Rose in half an hour," the girl explained.

That matter disposed of, Waring began to question her briskly.

"What's all this I hear about you? You certainly stole a march on us." His tone was agreeable enough, but Susan thought she detected an undercurrent of sarcasm. She flushed, answering the challenge.

"What do you know?" she parried.

"Everything," he smiled at her. "I must admit I was surprised. His manner changed, became suddenly grave. 'You don't mind if I talk to you like a Dutch uncle, do you?'"

Susan said no, she didn't.

"Well, it's this way," the man went on confidentially. "I hope you're perfectly sure what you're doing before you go into this, because it's awfully easy to make a mistake that needs a lot of undoing."

"I know that," answered Susan faintly, puzzled at his implication.

"I don't want to barge in where I'm not wanted," Waring pursued.

"Anyone who tries to advise people about to be married has picked himself a thankless job. But I like you both and I've been through the mill myself." He paused and Susan did not attempt to assist him.

"The old man is a grand one. Nobody knows that better than I do," he went on awkwardly. "He's a bit set in his ways but that doesn't matter particularly. The thing is, are you quite sure you care enough about him to make him happy? He's had a stiff time of it for the last 10 years, I happen to know."

SUSAN was annoyed to find herself blushing. She was conscious of a deep anger swelling within her. What right had this man to interfere in her private concerns?

"There, I know you'd think it was none of my business," Waring muttered in disgust. "I knew I was going to bungle this. Maybe I'd better not say anything more."

"I'm sure you mean well," Susan told him coldly, but really you don't need to worry. Everything is going to be all right."

In spite of herself her voice shook a little and the man beside her gave her a keen glance.

"As long as I'm in bad," he said dryly, "I might as well go a little further. There's just one more question I'd like to ask and then I'm through. I'll say 'Bless you, my children' and join the mob scene after that."

"What is it?"

"I just wanted to know if that Dunbar lad got in touch with you. He was burning up the wires both, crying Miss Smith to get your telephone number."

"When was this?" Susan felt her heart pounding now.

"Oh, two or three weeks ago," she felt his shrewd eyes upon her. "Why, does it make any difference?"

"How can it now?" said Susan in a voice of despair. There—she had given herself away! The words had meant to say that. She had not meant to say that. She had not just slipped out.

Waring continued to sip his orangeade. "It's never too late, you know," he observed dispassionately.

Susan looked away. "Ah, but it is, sometimes," she said.

"I don't know how deeply you've got into this thing," Waring said, "but I can tell you this. If you're not absolutely certain you want to go through with this marriage, don't do it. I'm not one to say they're made in heaven. Not all."

materially with present well established routes and will no doubt provide another outlet for milk.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Halbauer Mr. and Mrs. George Dinges and Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Chaon motored to St. Charles on Saturday where they attended the funeral of John Then, a brother of Mrs. Halbauer.

A collection of twenty-one first communicants presented a very impressive ceremony on Sunday morning at St. Mary's church. The church was filled far beyond seating capacity and the aisles and hallways were filled with standers. The boys were attired in dark blue suits while the girls wore wreaths and veils. Father Healy met them at the door and they marched to their places within. The class were: Betty Jones, Francis Maier, Celia Henkel, Flora Haub, Delyle Chaon, Beatrice Chaon, Margaret Maier, Alice Gehant, Betty Lou Chaon, Onida Irwin, Robert Gehant, John Gallistath, Lester Koehler, Donald Boyle, Joe Gallistath, Jack Halbauer, Bobbie Henry, Wayne Bodmer, Robert Boyle and Arthur Michel.

The many friends of Mrs. Sarah Henry of Rochelle were sorry to learn of her unexpected passing at that city on Tuesday. Mrs. Henry had fractured her hip on the Saturday preceding and was getting along nicely when gangrene set in and she passed away before her children could get to her bedside. The deceased was a resident of this locality for many years coming here with her family from Kansas. She is a sister to Mrs. Laurent Gehant, Mrs. Frank Gehant and Lewis Henry of Paw Paw. Mrs. Louis Gehant is a daughter and outside of Julius living at Mendota, the remaining children all reside around Rochelle.

Mr. and Mrs. William Auchstetter entertained Mr. and Mrs. Chris Oester of Aurora, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Irwin of Compton and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bauer of Welland at their home on Sunday for dinner.

George Jones, Herbert Miller and William Untz motored to Sublette on Saturday evening on business.

The cast of a three act comedy which will be presented at the school hall on next Tuesday evening for the enjoyment of the public is as follows:

Peggy Foster, Owner of a Boarding House ..... Esther Dolan
Lucille Brander, A Neighbor ..... Cleta Halbauer
Pansy, Slowest Hired Girl in the World ..... Alice Dolan
Mrs. Spitzendorf, Three times married and waiting for the fourth opportunity ..... Dorothy Hoerner
Ruby Wade, An unexpected visitor ..... Henrietta Clopine
Charles Mitchell, the enemy ..... Robert Horton
Sunny Jane Marquard, The little miss who started the trouble ..... Evelyn Chaon
Sam Streck, Mrs. Spitzendorf's fourth prospect ..... Francis Gehant
Larry Randolph, another enemy ..... Florian Walter
Joe Martin, Aspires to be metropolitan ..... Gerald Koehler
Freddie Beadle, The shiek ..... Orchard Center ..... Ray Johnson

of them, at least. But there's all the difference between heaven and hell in some of them. Ready?" He helped Susan down from her stool.

"Forgive me for being a meddling old busybody," he said at parting, "but think over what I've told you."

Susan promised, glad to escape. She would not admit even to herself how excited she was at the idea that Bob had been looking for her. That explained, then, the abrupt transition from eagerness to coldness in his glance the night before. Seeing her with Heath, knowing she had left the office—what would his reactions be? She was angry at him, nevertheless, for having come to the conclusion he had undoubtedly reached. He might have had more faith in her.

"Are you shopping this afternoon?" Rose wanted to know 10 minutes later over the luncheon table.

"No, I'm not."

SUSAN picked up a spoon and laid it down again. She had no appetite.

"I don't know what on earth is the matter with you," Rose remarked, attacking her chicken a la king with relish. "Charge accounts opened for you, and all, and you're too bored to use them."

"I said I wouldn't," Susan reminded her. "All those things will have to wait until afterward. I haven't any money and Ernest knows that. He'll just have to take me as I am."

"I never heard anything so silly," said Rose. "Even

GOOD THOUGHTS

Naught so enriches and makes joyous our lives as the constant endeavor to enrich and make joyous the lives of others.—Charles M. Jay.

Life is a place of service, and in that service one has to suffer a great that is hard to bear, but more often to experience a great deal of joy.—Tolstol.

Love feels no burden, thinks nothing of trouble, attempts what is above its strength, pleads no excuse of impossibility; for it thinks all things lawful for itself and all things possible. It is therefore able to undertake all things and it completes many things, and brings them to conclusion, where he who does not love, faints and lies down.—Thomas a Kempis.

Centuries ago John wrote, "He that loveth not his brother whom he hath seen, how can he love God whom he hath not seen?" Man-kind has not always understood this statement since it has often appeared easier to love the invisible God than the visible brother. John was but expressing the truth Jesus so clearly taught and demonstrated—the truth that because God is Love, man can find or know God only through loving. If they do not have love in their hearts for their brother or how can they be conscious of the Love which is God, Himself?—Christian Science Sentinel.

Herein is love, not that we loved God, but that He loved us and sent His Son to be the propitiation for our sins. Beloved if God so loved us, we ought also to love one another. . . . If we love one another God dwelleth in us and his love is perfected in us.—1 John 4.

BETHEL U. E. CHURCH

"The Growing Church"
Cor. N. Galena and Morgan St.
Paul D. Gordon, Pastor.
We were glad to have so many friends and strangers visit our church last Sunday and we hope you will all come again as we appreciate having you with us and hope you enjoy being there.

The attendance in both the Sunday School and church was about 20 per cent more than our membership last Sunday. If every member stays on the job we can do this again. We were also glad to welcome 14 new members into our church last Sunday and we hope they will find a place of service in the Master's vineyard.

Sunday School 9:45 A. M. J. U. Weyant, Supt.
Morning Worship 10:45 to 11:45. Subject "Radiant Lives."

This is the last week of the Cantrell Revival so let us all put forth a great effort to lead some one to Jesus Christ this week. Remember that Tuesday night is Sunday School night try to bring a friend with you.

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH

Gilbert Stansell, pastor.
Sunday morning at 10:45 the pastor will conduct the worship and preach. It is Pentecost Sunday. The music and sermon will be in keeping with this important anniversary. "Naturally we will be thinking about what took place at that Pentecost ages ago" said Dr. Stansell this morning "but even more challenging is the implication of that record for our lives in the present day. This service will be supported by the choir and a very hearty hymn-singing."
The Women's Home Missionary Society will meet Thursday afternoon with Mrs. A. W. Chandler, 306 N. Jefferson Ave. The officers for the ensuing year will be elected. Mrs. T. W. Clayton will be in charge of the program. A very large attendance is expected.

Dr. Stansell has charge of the Epworth League devotional meeting Sunday evening at 6:15, the subject being "The Changing Home, What Can We Do About It?" He will be assisted in the conducting of the meeting by the following: Miss Ruth Leydig, Ethel Lord, Paul Grimes, Miss Helen Marth, Dean Ball, Miss Milla Wolke and Helen Kennedy. A large attendance is expected. There will be opportunity for any one to express himself or herself as the meeting will take the nature of an open conference.

Sunday evening at 7:30, Dr. Stansell will present the third sermon in the course, "Some Modern Sins." The children's chorus will assist in this service.

The Intermediate League will meet at 6:30.

The church school opens each Sunday morning at 9:45. Last Sunday morning the attendance was larger than it has been for months. The expectation is for a very fine session Sunday morning.

CHURCH OF THE BRETHREN

Corner Third and Madison
B. C. Whitmore, Pastor.
The Sunday school lesson at 10 o'clock Sunday morning will be "Face to Face with God." Genesis 27th and 28th chapters, contains the lesson about Jacob at Bethel. You will profit by being present at Sunday school and in the study of this great experience of one of the patriarchs of God. Yes, bring your friends and your neighbors, especially the children. Suitable classes for all ages with good teachers.

At 11 o'clock the worship hour will have a season of prayer and praise, followed by the message, "In God's Presence." This topic is in keeping with the Sunday school lesson, and is intended to augment the lesson as well as to furnish suitable meditations looking toward our communion service at an early date. A welcome will be extended to those making application for membership in the church through the Cantrell revival. Certainly you and your friends will want to worship with us. Everyone is cordially invited to our services.

Hartford, Conn., May 13 —(AP)—A delegation supporting Alfred E. Smith, although containing nine delegates-at-large favorable to the presidential nomination of Franklin D. Roosevelt, will be sent to the Democratic national convention from Connecticut. Details of a compromise which smoothed out a stumbling block that had threatened a bitter fight at the state convention Monday and Tuesday, were announced by the Smith group last night. The arrangement, it was reported, has been agreed to by both sides. Governor Wilbur L. Cross and State Chairman David A. Wilson, will attend as neutral delegates. They, the nine Roosevelt supporters and 13 delegates favorable to Smith, each, with one-quarter vote, will compose the 21 delegates-at-large, casting six votes.

Washington, May 13 —(AP)—

The pre-convention curtain-raiser to the 1932 campaign is ending, as it began, with the Republicans still arguing what to do about prohibition, and the Democrats still disputing what to do about a candidate.

Recent developments appear to have deepened, if anything, the bitterness of feeling within the parties on these two prime questions. The present mood of the many smooth years, during which they have accepted the fallacy that prosperity was inherent in the conditions under which they lived and the geography of their country. The conditions and geography of America do indeed render it less liable to suffer from other people's troubles than other countries, but many people are just now discovering that the United States is no more than a cog in the wheel of the world and that the wheel has hesitated and begun to creep.

Some cities only keep about three jumps ahead of the hearse. Keep your city miles ahead.

NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING IS GOOD MEDICINE!

About 10,000 miles of Illinois dirt roads are oiled annually at approximate cost of $2,500,000.

On the Republican side, President Hoover continues to pile up delegate strength long after he has passed the number needed to nominate, but life as a candidate is not all roses for him at that. The pressure on him to approve this or that prohibition plank grows more and more insistent as the convention date approaches.

in the leafy vegetables, fruits, cereals and in milk. Remember, too, that raw vegetables, coarse foods and fruits are excellent teeth cleansers.

"The final point to be stressed is that no grown person should fool himself into the idea that he cannot afford the time to chew his food."

"Therefore, while daily disciplining the youngsters in the mastication process, see that you also practice what you preach. Dental and general health will be satisfied with no less."

COLONIC IRRIGATIONS
Colonic irrigations are a relatively recent technique for the treatment of various conditions of the colon.

They are employed for the removal of abnormal mucus, toxic products and bacteria from the bowel.

They differ from the enema in that the latter is used to induce evacuation of the lower bowel while colonic irrigations are employed for the purpose of washing out the colon.

This newer method of treatment while valuable under certain circumstances, is not without danger and should not be employed except on prescription by a physician.

In the irrigation of the colon, unmedicated water at a temperature of about 100 degrees F. may be used. To obtain desirable results a substantial amount of water, from five to ten gallons, must be required.

The whole process may last as long as 45 minutes to an hour, and its success may be judged when the returning fluid is clean and free from offensive odors.

The irrigation should be gentle in its effects. Before commencing the irrigation, the lower bowel must be clear of fecal matter.

The tube used should be small and should not be inserted into the rectum beyond three or four inches.

The reservoir containing the water should not be more than two feet above the level of the rectum. It is not desirable to have too great a pressure.

The irrigation may be taken first with the patient lying on the left side with knees drawn up, and subsequently with the patient on his back.

If the process induces pain, it should be stopped until the seige of cramps and other untoward symptoms disappear.

Care should be taken not to injure the mucous membranes of

DAILY HEALTH

"The modern idea is to do all things in a hurry 'to save time.' People rush hither and thither, and speed up their activities to a sixty mile an hour gait, presuming under the impression that motion is achievement. In this respect they imitate the squirrel who runs to the point of exhaustion in his revolving cage, and who finds himself at the exact spot from which he started at the conclusion of his heart-breaking exertion. Indeed, this speed mania has made such inroads that many people habitually bolt their food. The art of proper mastication for them has to all intents and purposes been lost. It is little wonder then, that in addition to the development of digestive disturbances and kindred ills, they do not become enthusiastic over the problem of proper mastication for their children."

Dr. L. W. Neber, Supt. of the State Health Department's dental section, today

"If persons insist on using soft foods exclusively they have a right to expect diseased teeth and, as a matter of fact, this general practice is more responsible for dental defects than any other one factor. But it certainly does not follow that grown-ups have any right to become careless regarding the masticating habits of their youngsters. Really, it is criminal to do so."

"Young children, like other animals, are likely to swallow most anything. Chewing to them is a must be definitely encouraged. When the time has arrived for the use of hard food, (and this time is at the beginning of the teething period) the baby should be given dry toast, swaback or a bread crust. The masticating function must be daily employed if sound teeth and sturdy supporting tissue is to be formed."

"Therefore, in spite of one's personal indifference to mastication, one should be forever on the job to see that the children eat, chew and swallow properly. General health, jaw and tooth development absolutely require that this be done."

"And while on the subject of eating it should not be forgotten that the mineral salts and vitamins, so necessary to tooth health and bone growth, are to be found the rectum when inserting the tube. Lubricate the tube with petroleum jelly to help avoid irritation."

Newspaper advertising throws a powerful light to guide you when and where you can buy for less.

A great part of the public of the United States has stood amazed at the period of non-prosperity that has come at the end of so many smooth years, during which they have accepted the fallacy that prosperity was inherent in the conditions under which they lived and the geography of their country. The conditions and geography of America do indeed render it less liable to suffer from other people's troubles than other countries, but many people are just now discovering that the United States is no more than a cog in the wheel of the world and that the wheel has hesitated and begun to creep.

Some cities only keep about three jumps ahead of the hearse. Keep your city miles ahead.

Success in anything means an earnest effort and grim energy, dominated by a spirit of "I will and I can."

An automobile has its rights. Its rights, however, do not mean that it may be allowed to break the laws and endanger the life of the pedestrian and the car that keeps within the law.

The new name for Patriotism seems to be the word Economy.

You should help spread the fame of your city. Herald her advantages and achievements everywhere!

The law of vibration is among the most certain and unerring of laws. It is the law of the radio, which has made earth upstairs one wonderful whispering gallery.

Who is to decide what is good for the public, the public or some one who can only do so by knowing better than the public just what is good for them?

If you spend your money in some other city and your neighbor does the same, what will become of YOUR HOME CITY?
